EQUAL EDUCATION OF THE SEXES.

The University of London will, this fall, be thrown open to women in all its departments—law, medicine, literature and science, and women will receive the same degrees as men on completing the same studies. The new plan meets with the hearty approval and co-operation of every member of the faculty. The soundness of the theory of equal education for both sexes is receiving recognition from all sources, whose influence is of controlling value in determining the practical effects of this theory. The respective duties of man and woman are not so distinctive as one is often inclined to presume, nor is it politic, much less necessary, that their education should be widely different, either in character or amount. The moral law of our being, that we should develop the qualities of the mind and body to their fullest rational limit is alike incumbent upon man and woman. It is true that both are the counterpart of each other, and that in the intellectual life woman supplements man as truly as in the physical life. But the paths along which both pursue their way involve most things in common, and all supplemental knowledge, if imparted, leaves the recipient in the state of approximate complete information. Therefore, in order that due regard be had for the economy of time and the attainment of better results, each should have equal opportunities in the pursuit of knowledge. If the possession of knowledge strengthens, ennobles and beautifies the mind; if it gives it a wider range of thought, expands its views and conception of animate and inanimate nature, why should it be denied to the woman? Let her, who is man's companion, enjoy the same or an equal mental development for her own well being, and also the increased pleasure of her male companion.

The nearer woman is man's equal the better it is for both. Of course we do not hold that their knowledge should be identical, any more than it is possible or desirable that all men have identical knowledge. The "weaker vessel" should be relegated to the barbarians of the past, and woman should be accorded the right to a full education with man. The more vigorous she is in mind and body, the better companion she is for man. Her transmissions to posterity are at least quite as great as those of man, and therefore the at least equal necessity for her symmetrical development of mind and body.

THE POTTER FIZZLE.

The Potter committee has adjourned until next Wednesday. The sub-committee is still in session at New Orleans. Emile L. Weber gives contradictory testimony to Mrs. Jenks in regard to the Sherman letter. Eliza Pinkston, the lying negress, may testify before the sub-committee. There is some amusement offered to Republicans in seeing the Democrats discomfited and making the party ridiculous in the eyes of the people, and yet for this folly the people pay $20,000. There will be a few hot-headed members of the unfettered party who will believe much of the testimony of those quick witnesses before the Potter committee; but the honest, intelligent Democrat is as disgusted with the Potter farce as are the Republicans themselves. There is nothing of special interest, save a few quasi, silly and brilliant replies to Mrs. Jenks, in all the evidence yet given which reflects against the visiting statesmen, and especially John Sherman. Butler wants to hurt Hayes, and is willing to make a catspaw of the Democratic party. The Democratic hot-heads are willing dupes to Butler's folly, and further, attracted by the ignis fatuus of campaign material, have drawn their party into an affair which is now reacting, and must necessarily react to the detriment of their party.

LETTER FROM AUSTIN.

Communism—Overthrow of the Kearneyites Predicted.

Editor Gazette: Communism, which took its name from the Paris mob which tried to play Samson and did really pull down one pillar, and which is made up in a large measure of the same element, imported or transported, with all its stupidity, ignorance and untamed, because uneducated, animal instincts, has been permitted to assume an attitude, owing to our liberal system, which is to-day a nuisance and disgrace, and it is an unnecessary terror to many. California is reaping the benefit of her supineness, and she is to have a dose of atheism, communism, argarianism and every other "ism" to be found outside the pale of well-regulated society and foreign to American ideas of government and social life, in the rabid mixtures to be assembled in a constitutional convention. Barbers and bootblacks, waiters and peddlers, horny-fisted mechanics, howling local politicians and mouthing

SAND-LOT ORATORS. Men whose study of constitutional law has perhaps extended to a Democratic leader, or a speech with a rope in it, have been chosen to revise the constitution of the great State of California. And many of these are foreigners, with the signatures of naturalization papers scarcely dry; maggots bred from the half-decayed carcass of Democracy. Any constitution they may frame must, of course, be ratified by the people; but if the people could permit the election of such a rabble, will they not be likely to sanction their action? Of course California and Nevada and most of the new States have a population so mixed that to exclude foreigners would be an impossibility, even were it wise, and where the majority of voters are of foreign birth—but that need not deliver the management of affairs over to a class of demagogues and political tramps. This way of preface. I said that people were indulging in unnecessary fear of communism, and I repeat it. I have lived long enough to see worse diseases effectually cured. I have seen the rise and fall of more than one such movement; movements inaugurated by political wire-pullers for selfish ends, and when those ends were reached, falling to pieces from mere innate weakness consequent on the absence of any cohesion or sound principle to bind them together. I remember

ONE OF THOSE SPASMS which shook the country somewhere about 1835-5-7; a real workingmen's movement, which sent many representatives to State legislatures, and feasted others with fat local offices; but ignorant cupidity and itching fingers and palms rained them almost to a man, and the party was forgotten. Prominent among the agitators was a man who lives to-day, I think, in Plumas county, California, and who has been known as an agrarian and general stirrer up of strikes ever since he came to the coast. He was, in the days I speak of, a hand-loom check weaver, a little, unwashed, unshaven, foul-mouthed Irishman, who made speeches—with a brogue to them—in public, in dirty check shirt, and with hands and face stained with blue dye from web and wool, just as he left his loom. He would have played sans culotte if the law had not fortunately compelled the wearing of breeches, to show his indifference for the conventionalities of blasted capitalists, and, so it is, refined society. He was a

RANK OUTSPOKEN INFIDEL, too, a perfect bonnet rouge from Tipperary, and at all infidel meetings he used to exhibit his little boy, now a District Judge in California, to show the admiring crowds that what he professed he intended to teach his children. George M. Dallas had just returned from the Russian mission, and as a prominent and leading Democrat these blue-shirted workingmen made him the offer of their votes on condition of his declaring for the workingmen, still adhering to Democratic principles. George M. was a Democrat but not a demagogue, and besides he was a profound lawyer and a gentleman, and he refused. As a consequence a meeting was called on the spot on which the crowd cheered the reading of the Declaration of Independence in 1876, and there, under the shadow of Independence Hall, this vulgar scarcely naturalized foreigner read George M. Dallas out of the Democratic party—a man whose ancestors had been foremost among those who secured the vulgar old man the privilege of opening his mouth on that sacred spot. But the movement died out, as all such movements die, and the little weaver was soon lost sight of, as well as his party. Imagine my surprise at encountering the old demagogue a year or so ago in

JOHN FERRAL, of Plumas county. His name, when I knew him first, was Farrel, but I suppose he or the family has inhaled some notions of the value of a name, and so transposed a couple of letters. I may say of the men whom that movement elevated one shoemaker distinguished himself for his ignorance, another sold himself to a railroad corporation, and a third, a quack doctor, I heard inside of six months yelled by newsboys around the streets as a traitor, and that the only man who ever profited by it is living to-day in Washington, and editing the Democratic Review. I refer to Thomas B. Florence.

THE BOAT BUILDER'S SON, as he was called in campaigns, when he represented the district now owned and occupied by Sam Randall. He was a hatter by trade, and I remember his old sign which hung many a day on the site of the building whence Jay Cooke hurled "innumerable woes" over the land. It read, "Thomas B. Florence, Practical Hatter." He was known as "Handsome Tom," and has survived all his old companions in arms who threatened the overthrow of our whole political, commercial and social system in these old almost forgotten days. And so will DIE OUT this spasm which is spreading over the land to-day. "It had a violent beginning, and thou shalt see an answerable sequestration." It can no more exist than Ireland could govern herself. It carries the seeds of dissolution around with it, and will go up by spontaneous combustion, fouling and smearing all around it. But such little tempests purify the air, and open men's eyes to the wants of the times. Vesuvius puffs and fumes now and then, but it never destroyed but those two old cities, and never will again, for no one will build on the same spot.

Austin, Nevada, July 3, 1878.

Picnic at Bowers.

As usual, saving our best local to the last, the foreman cries "Enough copy." To be brief, then, yesterday morning about 100 persons left Reno to spend and did spend one of the most pleasant days at that charming retreat known as Bowers' Mansion. The day was just right, and Bowers' Mansion and grounds—well, we have described that—seemed a more lovely spot than usual. On arriving at the grounds we all scattered around. Some went in bathing, others played croquet, some appropriated the swings, and others rambled over the beautiful grounds. Very soon the music furnished by the Muller brothers and Miss Wintermantel started up, and two hours of dancing were enjoyed. We cannot describe a picnic which under a large shade tree, where one meets and eats with a number of his best friends. Reader, you have been there. Shortly after dinner, Nat Holmes' fine piano was hefted, and excellent vocal and instrumental music—real harmony—copiously extracted from patriotic, sacred and comic song. Then the bow was drawn, and homages to Terpsichore joyously rendered. Of course some of the young folks would and did seek pleasant nooks, and made those romantic retreats resonant with pleasant converse and laughter. Messrs. Higgins and Holmes did all in their power to add to our pleasure. Bowers' is the place, and the crowd that were there yesterday understand how to spend just such a day.

Indian Outrages in Warren Valley.

From a gentleman just in from Camp Bidwell, we learn that Ochocho and his band of Indians a few days ago burned three houses and stole about fifty head of horses in the northern end of Warren valley, which is about sixty miles north of Bidwell. The houses burned were the residences of John Wilson, J. De Garmo and Reuben Rodgers. The horses stolen belonged to Wilson, except two owned by Rodgers. Mr. I. Ayers, a merchant of Bidwell, but who is now in Reno, is expecting daily to receive a case of arms and ammunition from General McDowell at San Francisco. When these arms arrive, Mr. Ayers and three others will start immediately with these munition of war for the salt marsh, where they will be met by a company of fifteen men. Considerable excitement prevails in and near Bidwell, and many settlers have come to the camp for protection and have driven their stock into Surprise for safe keeping.

METHODIST PICNIC.—At 8 o'clock yesterday morning about 300 Sunday school children and adults boarded a passenger coach, two flats and a caboose for Treadway's ranch. They report having a jolly time. Quite a number of those who went over attended the Carson celebration and the races in the afternoon. The Reno brass band furnished the music for the occasion. The picnicers left Carson at 6:15 and arrived in Reno about 7:15. The picnic was a success, and those who attended express themselves as more than pleased with the day's sport.

THE GREAT RACE.

Mollie McCarthy Distanced in the First Heat.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE EVENING GAZETTE.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 4.—When the drum was tapped for the greatest four-mile race to-day, Ten Broeck and Mollie McCarthy went by the string like twin bullets. At the first quarter they were side by side and going gallantly forward. Thirty thousand spectators were present, and they were held in perfect silence. At the three-quarter pole Mollie got her nose ahead, and a grand cheer arose. In the second mile Mollie appeared to be running so easily and Ten Broeck laboring so hard that the Kentuckians wavered by the thousand, and the certainty of California winning produced a dead silence. When the string was passed and the second mile completed, Mollie was a half a length in the lead. "She will win, sure," was heard in all directions. She passed the quarter in the third mile still leading, but the horse hung on to her closely, and made the pace so murderous that many knew that his bottom would have an effect ultimately. At the three eighths pole Mollie let up in her running, Ten Broeck making the track and passing her at the very moment his friends were giving him up. On the third mile the horse was ahead ten lengths, and from this time on increased the lead. The queen of the Californians was at the three-quarter pole, galloping, when the Kentucky horse passed the string and distanced her. The time was as follows: First mile, 1:49; second mile, 3:45; third mile, 5:53; fourth mile, 8:19—more than a minute slower than Ten Broeck's best record. The mare was about dead when she reached the stand. The heat of a July day in Kentucky had been too much for her, and Ten Broeck was much more distressed than he should have been.

Carson Celebration.

By inquiry we learn the following particulars of the celebration in Carson yesterday: The procession was very fine, and was the largest and most complete in every particular of any Fourth of July procession ever held in Carson. All the literary exercises passed off pleasantly, and the races in the afternoon were attended by a large number of spectators. About 1000 persons came down from Virginia City after the literary exercises in that city. These Comstockers were brought down in three trains. The first race was the sweepstake race, two in three, between Illusion, Batterman and April Fool. The first heat was won by Illusion; time, 1:47½. Second heat by Batterman; time, 1:50½. Third heat by April Fool; time, 1:54, and the fourth heat and race was won by April Fool; time, 1:56½. Purse, $1000.

The next race was a half-mile dash. Entries, Red Oak, Kent and Glen Dudley. Race was won by Glen Dudley. The third race was between Joe Stuart, Tom Morgan and Jim Cook. Purse, $400. First heat won by Joe Stuart; time, 2:33½. Cook distanced. Second heat and race won by Stuart; time 2:39. Morgan distanced.

The Berlin Congress.

The Berlin Congress will close its session in four, or, at most, six sittings. The final proceeding of the Congress will consist of the presentation of the main treaty, which the committee appointed to draw it up will submit, clause by clause. The progress made in the disposition of the questions at issue has been retarded by the severe comments of Russian and English generals. England has most taken advantage of the generous nature of Count Schouvaloff. The Russian Minister desires peace, and has made marked concessions in limiting Bulgaria, and in regard to the Straits, in deference to England's wishes. Should England, because of the fact that Russia has yielded thus much, grow impatient in her requests, and a reactive spirit dictate the diplomacy of Russia, the lesser powers will grow insolent in their demands, and thus prolong the sitting of this Congress, or practically defeat its principal objects.

There are 40,000 Turkish troops in Bosnia and Herzegovina and 20,000 between Novi Bazar and Pristina. The Austrian army of occupation will consist of 134,000 men. No military resistance is anticipated, although the altitude of the population of both provinces is hostile.

Amalgamating Pan.

Accepting an invitation on Saturday afternoon we visited the Auburn mill and witnessed the workings of the late invention of Mr. S. W. Kimble—an amalgamating pan. This pan may be thus briefly described: The main pan is circular in form and has a concave bottom. It is six feet in diameter and three feet in depth. On each side of this pan is a pulp agitator, which is a nearly flat, hollow cast iron box, two feet in diameter, and about six inches in height. A shaft runs through this box and sets in motion three iron arms, concave at first, and then deflected in a curve from the center, to facilitate, when in motion, the centrifugal force of the pulp. This shaft is run by a counter shaft, which latter supplies the motive power for the entire pan. Two suction pipes furnish the means of ingress for the pulp out of the pan into the agitator, and a discharge pipe returns this pulp again into the pan. At the bottom of the pan is a discharge valve which is opened or closed by a lever arm. Into this pan is dumped the roasted or simply crushed ore, and the proper amount of quicksilver and water. The arm agitators are set in motion and the pulp is drawn by suction into the agitators, and thence into the pan. This forward and back motion of the pulp produces a circular current of elliptical form, one diameter being long, and the diameter at right angles, known as the conjugate diameter, being very short. Now as the pan is itself in rotation, a pulp current is produced in the bottom of the pan that is in the form of small circles, carried around as loops on the inner side of a large circle; that is, the form of the current is epicycloidal. This gives a circular current to the general mass of the pulp. The number of revolutions in the agitator is 300 to the minute, and, since the diameter is two feet, it follows that the pulp is carried around at a velocity of 1800 feet per minute. The force of this current, at its exit from each discharge pipe, is about sixty pounds to the square inch, or twenty cubic feet of pulp, weighing 2000 pounds, discharged each minute, into and against the general pulp mass. The agitation of the pulp is therefore much greater than in the ordinary amalgamating pans, and does the work of amalgamation in about one-quarter of the time. A charge for this pan is 2000 pounds, while a charge for the old pans is 1000 pounds. Therefore, one of Kimble's pans does as much work as eight of the old ones. Another advantage lies in the expense of the two kinds of pans. Kimble's costs less than the other pans, and, further, is simpler, and does not so easily get out of repair. The advantages, then, of his pan hover to ordinary amalgamating pan are: Saving of time, expense, repairs, space, labor, in simplicity of construction and running, and a saving of power, while the work is more effectively done. We saw it in operation, and saw the amalgam formed by it. A full and complete test has not been made of it, but if it shall prove to do what its inventor claims for it, it will at once take the place of the pans at present in use, and prove one of the most valuable mining mill inventions ever devised.

Probably an Unnecessary Scare.

A Portland, Oregon, dispatch of July 3d says: Col. Lang arrived here last night from Wasco county and brings information that a good many people are coming into that place from different parts of Grant county in consequence of fear of the Indians. It is believed, however, to be an unnecessary scare. All resident Indians are perfectly quiet and friendly, and the only danger that would arise would be from possible movement of hostiles trying to escape from General Howard.

Shot by a School Marm.

Considerable excitement was caused at Lincoln, Cal., Monday, news being brought into town that a prominent citizen named Philbrick had been shot and hurt by a Mrs. Mears. It seems, from what can be heard, that Philbrick is a school trustee of an adjoining district and Mrs. Mears is the teacher. The trustee and teacher had some difficulty, not yet explained, when she drew a revolver and attempted to shoot. He caught hold of her hand and turned the pistol so that he caught the ball in the leg above the knee.

The count of the votes cast in San Francisco at the recent constitutional election was only finished July 3d. While the Workingmen carry San Francisco by a heavy majority, the Non-Partisans elect the entire delegation at large, giving them control of the convention.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

The Fall river, Mass., print works have suspended. Liabilities, $150,000.

The British Channel squadron has left Suda Bay, island of Crete, with sealed orders.

The Greek ministry have resigned, in consequence of a difference between them and the Premier.

The Missouri river is falling rapidly at Omaha; but the danger to property on the bank is not yet over.

Revenue collector Newman and his deputy were arrested at Omaha July 3d for alleged irregularities.

The Missouri river at Ashland, Kansas, is higher than it has been for twelve years, and is doing a great deal of damage.

Ex-Governor Pacheco is prominently named at Washington for appointment to the recently revived office of Minister to Bolivia.

The sheep of California were depleted fully one-third by the storms and want of feed in that State last year.

President Hayes has notified the California delegation that he is unable to accept the invitation tendered him to attend the California State fair at Sacramento.

The stage coach from Deadwood to Hat creek, Wyoming, was stopped by highwaymen Monday night, and three of the passengers were wounded by shots from the robbers.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup!

HYPOPHOSPHITES.

THIS DISCOVERY

Is the result of a series of Scientific Experiments based upon the theory that the successful cure of Wasting Diseases, the nervous system must be made vigorous and healthy. One of the first symptoms of disease affecting either the Liver, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, or Genital Organs, is a loss of nervous power. This is followed by muscular relaxation, weakness, and emaciation of all the organs which depend upon them for health or involuntary muscular action, the weaker suffering first.

The inventor, acting upon this idea, that the muscles and nerves depend upon each other for efficient strength and action, and that they must be treated directly in order to speedily and permanently cure diseases of the organs which they control, became convinced, after months of experiment, that no other preparation produced such potent and direct effects upon the nervous system as his and except in cases of actual organic loss, that it would restore patients suffering from those maladies.

Amongst the diseases overcome by the use of this remedy are the following:

Chronic Constipation,
Chronic Dyspepsia,
Asthma,
Chronic Bronchitis,
Consumption,
Chronic Diarrhea,
Chronic Laryngitis,
Melancholy,
Nervous Debility.

Debility, resulting from Typhoid and other low fevers, Diphtheritic Prostration, Dysentery, Hypochondria, Nervous Excitability, Wasting, or Wasting of the Muscles, Aphonia or Loss of Voice, Stagnation of the Liver, Interrupted and Feeble Action of the Heart, Suppurative Processes caused by mucous obstructions of the Lungs and Air Passages leading to the consumption, and Debility from various causes. Indigestion and Abnormal Gustiveness almost always arise from weakness of the muscles and nerves of the stomach, and bowels. In such cases, Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself the greatest service by inducing healthy peristaltic action of the intestines. The evacuations soon become copious and healthy, without producing the effect of purgative medicine.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites

The power of arresting diseases displayed by this preparation is honorably acknowledged by the medical faculty in every section where it has been introduced, and the large sale is the best guarantee of the estimation in which it is held by the public.

This syrup will cure PULMONARY CONSUMPTION in the first and second stages, will give great relief and prolong life in the third, it will cure ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, LARYNGITIS and COUGHS. It will cure all diseases originating from want of Muscular Action and Nervous Force.

Jottings.

The English mill will start up Monday.

Next Monday the full stock report as usual.

Go to the Saddle Rock and try Jones oysters.

Mr. Alexanar remained over to-day in attendance at the Carson races.

This is the day after the Fourth and nearly every feels that yesterday was the Fourth.

Brookins & Co. have that pleasant little song, "Baby Mine." Secure a copy.

A slight rain fell about 1 o'clock to-day. Not sufficient, however, to lay the dust.

The dance at the Reno opera house last night was not so well attended as it should have been.

Several Renoites, complain of the alkali dust which was blown over the spectators at the Carson race track.

Reno celebrated last night and the night before at the expense of a few tons of fire-crackers and sky rockets.

The Gazette office boasts a youth so fleet of foot that he can outrun a mule. The experiment was made yesterday with Shaffer's mule. Pusher rode and George did the foot business and won easily.

Messrs. Riggen & Buckley announce in a local advertisement that they are now prepared to sell all kinds of fruit cheaper than it has ever been sold in Reno. Read their advertisement and accommodate their request.

On Wednesday evening eleven bars of bullion were shipped through here to San Francisco. Four of these bars are Northern Belle bullion; two from Silver Hill; three from Gold Hill; two from outside mines.

THE SIERRA VALLEY DITCH.—From the Enterprise of yesterday we learn that there has been shipped from Virginia City, a car-load of tools, tents, provisions and necessary supplies of all kinds for the use of the workmen in the employ of the Sierra Valley Irrigation and Water Company. Forty men to work on the ditch have also been sent out to the valley. Ex-City Clerk Mackay will leave here in a day or two to superintend the construction of the ditch. Water is taken from the Little Truckee river, and a great area of very fine land will be brought into cultivation when the ditch is completed.

Because of poor health, Frank Kenyon has disposed of the Lyon County Times to Mr. T. E. Picotte, who has been for some time a reporter on the Virginia Chronicle. The future course of the Times has not yet been announced, but it will probably be a Democratic journal.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Mining news is very limited this week, owing to there being no session of the San Francisco stock board. The Suto tunnel has not pierced the Savage mine yet, as we were led to believe from our Virginia City exchanges, and will not do so for a week and perhaps for much longer.

There is scarcely any change in trade in either market. The grain market is very dull. Vegetables are abundant, and for the most part cheaper than last week. Dairy produce is dull. Beef and pork have fallen, but mutton has advanced 3c. The wool market has improved. The wool receipts from January 1st to July 1st aggregate 22,406,900 lbs. Total exports, 19,193,100. The difference has been absorbed by the local mills or remains as stock on hand. The quantity sent away is 8,400,000 pounds less than for the same time last year, and nearly 3,000,000 pounds less than in 1876. We had the usual number of Eastern buyers, but they have all now left for their homes. It is said that some of the early purchasers for Eastern houses will net a loss, prices having failed to respond as expected.

The Eureka Sentinel says that "on the testimony of Mrs. Jenks hangs the reputation of John Sherman and R. B. Hayes." Cassidy, now don't. You are such a joker. Messrs. Hayes and Sherman might weep should their eyes discover your conception of the frail support to their reputation. And did you ever think, brother Cassidy, that you Democrats put Hayes in the presidential chair and made secure his seat? It was the Democratic party who got up the electoral commission and that commission seated Hayes. Ape the good sense of Bayard, Thurman and others and be content with the President you seated, who, as Stephens truthfully says, has done and is now doing more good for the South than the whole Union, we may add—than Tilden, either could or would have done.

Last year the Reverend Beecher said that workmen could live on one dollar a day and support their families, and that if necessary to do so they could subsist on bread and water. Naturally enough he incurred the displeasure of the sons of toil. He has lately made the matter worse by asserting that a little starvation now and then is a means of grace.

We would modestly suggest, that a little starvation might be a means of grace in the eyes of corporated wealth and general misfortune to this country.

The Idaho mining company of Grass Valley, California, has declared a dividend of $7 50 per share, aggregating $13,350, payable July 3d. This makes the 107th regular dividend.

Jenks' wife is a blonde. Grey eyes and pretty little feet and hands; and she says General Butler, "is just beautiful, and when he smiles he is perfectly lovely."

SPECIAL NOTICES.
